2. Every matter brought before the Faculty, shall be decided by votes, and it shall be the additional privilege of the President, or presiding Professor, to give a casting vote, when otherwise there would be a tie.

3. The Professors shall take rank according to the dates of their appointment.

4. The President may convoke the Faculty at his discretion, and the Faculty may also meet by adjournment.

5. The opinion or vote of any member of the Faculty, shall not be made known directly or indirectly to any one who is not a member of the body, except when express order shall be given to that effect by a unanimous decision of the Faculty.

6. A member of the Faculty shall not be a sitting member of any Society of Students.

7. It shall be the duty of every member of the Faculty individually, to be vigilant in carrying into effect every law of the College: and to report to the President or to the Faculty such transgressions as ought to be punished by that body.

8. The Faculty shall keep a record of their proceedings, the senior Tutor shall be their Clerk, and make a fair and regular entry of their transactions in a book kept for that purpose. This record shall be laid before the Board of Trustees, when required by them.

9. No act of the Faculty, which is not recorded by their order, shall be considered valid.

11. The Professors and Tutors shall, in succession, examine the rooms of the College, at least once a week, and see that cleanliness and neatness be preserved. In these visitations, they shall take an account of the locks, doors, windows and furniture, with the names of the inhabitants in each room. When damage of any description in the College buildings is at any time observed by a member of the Faculty, it shall be his duty to report it as soon afterwards as possible to the Bursar, that it may be immediately repaired.

12. It shall be the duty of each member of the Faculty, when he is to hear a class recite, to go to the Recitation Room, and take possession of it a reasonable time before the hour for the bell to ring, to prevent assemblages of Students before the proper time, and to see that the Recitation Room is in a proper condition for the reception of the class. The recitation of the class shall continue through the hour, or at least until the bell shall give notice of its expiration.

13. Every Professor shall have a room appropriated to him in the College. It is expected of the Professors, as pertinent to their office, to pass as much of their time every day in these rooms, as they conveniently can, to aid in the order and instruction of the College. The Board of Trustees will also look to the Professors to visit in succession the rooms of the Students at night, as often as convenient.

2. To become a Student on partial or irregular standing, the candidate, if he be not twenty-one years of age, must exhibit a certificate from his parent or guardian, that he is permitted to enter on such terms. If he would prosecute any branch of science, into which any class is already advanced, he must be examined with approbation on such parts of the science as the class has already completed.

3. Every Student, at his admission, shall obtain a copy of the Laws from the Bursar, and a certificate with the name of the President or presiding Professor, signed by himself, of the Student's regular admission into the University; and these shall be at all times, a necessary testimonial of his being a Student, to be shown when called for, to any member of the Faculty.

4. Every person, on admission into the University, shall pay the College dues for the session in advance.

5. If a Student shall enter before the session shall be half elapsed, he shall pay for the whole session; if he shall arrive at the middle of the session, or after it, he shall pay for half the session only; but room rent shall always be paid for the whole session.

6. If any person whose object it is to become a Student, shall fail to report himself to the President, on the first day after his arrival, he shall be excluded, if his reasons for delay be deemed invalid by the Faculty.

7. Any native of the State, desirous of prosecuting his studies in the University, who shall furnish satisfactory evidence of good talents, studious habits and exemplary morals, and who shall be unable to defray the expense of tuition, may, at the discretion of the Faculty, be admitted to all the recitations of the Classes, free from any demand for tuition. Such beneficiaries may occupy the rooms of the College, free of rent, when the rooms are not necessary for the accommodation of such Students as pay tuition and room rent.

8. The Faculty shall be authorised, in all cases, when, from examination, reasonable hopes can be entertained that deficiencies can be made up, to admit applicants for a single session, to whom regular standing shall be awarded at the end of that time, if the individual shall, upon examination, be found entitled to it.

9. An applicant shall not ordinarily be admitted into the University under the age of sixteen; but any applicant exhibiting in the opinion of the Faculty, the requisite strength and maturity of physical and mental constitution, and ample acquirements, and producing satisfactory testimonials of established moral character and steady habits, may be admitted, in the sound discretion of the Faculty, though he may not have attained this age.

10. A Student shall not be permitted to make any alterations in the studies which he has undertaken to prosecute in any session, until the session shall expire.

CHAPTER III.

OF THE BURSARSHIP.

1. One of the Professors shall be appointed Bursar of the University. It shall be his duty to receive from the Students the money or drafts for money they may bring with them, and disburse the same in paying the Board, Tuition Fees, College dues, and other necessary expenses of the Students. He shall keep an account of the money received and disbursed, for each Student, and at the close of each session, he shall render a copy of such account to the Parent or Guardian of each Student, and pay the balance (if any there be) to such Parent or Guardian, or to his or her written order.

2. Each Student, on his arrival at the University, shall pay over to the Bursar all money, or drafts for money, which may be committed to him for the payment of College expenses; and for his so doing, shall be considered as acting under a pledge of honor.

3. The Bursar shall be allowed five dollars a year for receiving and disbursing the money of each Student; which shall be paid at the close of each session, by the Treasurer of the University.

4. At the beginning of every session, the Students shall pay in advance one dollar each as room rent, and at the same time deposit with the Bursar three dollars each, to repair any damage they may commit; which sum, as far as unexpended, shall be returned at the end of the session; but if the damage shall exceed the sum deposited, the author shall pay the excess.

5. A Student shall not live in the College buildings in the vacation, without permission expressly obtained from the Bursar, or in his absence, from some member of the Faculty. The officer is expected to register the name of the Student thus permitted to reside, who is considered as pledging himself to make good all damages which he may commit. For all damages done in the room which he occupies, he is responsible, whether he cause them personally or not; and he may be directed to relinquish his residence in the buildings at any time in the vacation.

6. The Students on leaving their rooms at the end of the session, or at any time during the vacation, shall put the keys of their rooms into the hands of the Bursar.

7. It shall be the duty of the Bursar, at the beginning of every vacation, to have the doors and windows of the public buildings carefully fastened, where they are not inhabited. And if damages be done which he could not prevent, and of which the authors are unknown, he shall repair them at the expense of the Board.

CHAPTER IV.

COLLEGIATE DUTIES AND RESTRICTIONS.

1. The business of the University shall commence without delay, on the first day of the session, and except in cases where the Faculty shall, for special reasons, direct otherwise,— year, morning prayers shall be at sunrise. From the first of September to the first of May, the hours of study in the forenoon shall be from 9 till 12, and from 2 till 5 in the afternoon; and the bell shall be rung for summoning the Students to their rooms at 8 o'clock in the evening. Through the other part of the year, the hours of study in the forenoon shall be from half past 8 till 12, and from 3 till 6 in the afternoon; and the bell shall be rung in the evening at 9 o'clock.

3. After the ringing of the bell at night till breakfast on the following morning, the time not devoted to sleep is due to study, and it is the duty of the Student, if not engaged in the preparation of his lessons, to be in his room, and to maintain order and quiet there.

4. Every Student shall regularly and punctually attend the recitation of his class at the place appointed by his Instructor, and at the ringing of the bell to give him notice. He is not to be at the door of the recitation room, nor within it, nor loitering about the doors or passages of the buildings, before such notice is given. His Professor or Tutor shall call him to account for absence or delay, or neglect of preparation on the subjects assigned, and shall be the judge of his excuse. If a good reason be not shown for the delinquency, he may be cited before the Faculty to answer for it.

5. Whenever the absences of a Student other than those occasioned by sickness or consequent upon permission either from morning or evening prayers or from recitation, shall exceed in any one month one-third the whole number which such Student was bound to attend, the fact shall be reported to his Parent or Guardian, with a request that he be forthwith withdrawn from the Institution, or he shall be dismissed at the discretion of the Faculty.

6. Every Student shall observe a strict propriety of conduct at recitation or lecture; refraining from every thing which shall interrupt business, or divert the attention of others; he shall not recline or lounge upon the benches, nor be employed in eating, reading newspapers, nor any book or paper whatever, except such as the Professor or Tutor at the time shall direct. It is the duty of the Student to attend exclusively to the subjects of lecture or recitation, as they proceed with a view to his own improvement and to that of the class. For gross or persevering violations of these rules of decorum, he may be forthwith dismissed from the room, when his Instructor shall deem it necessary.

7. No Student shall absent himself from the University during the session, without permission first obtained from the President, or in his absence from the presiding Professor. But leave of absence from recitation may be granted to a Student by his Professor or Tutor.

8. If any Student shall be habitually indolent or inattentive to business, or absent from prayers, recitation or public worship, or at any other time when it shall be his duty to attend, he shall be subject to penalty according to the aggravation of his delinquency.

CHAPTER V.

EXAMINATIONS—COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES—COLLEGE MARSHALLS.

1. For the improvement of the Students in public Speaking, two or more of them shall each deliver an oration, every evening, immediately after prayers, on the stage in the public hall: and to this duty they shall be called in alphabetical rotation; nor shall any Student be exempted from it, except for natural impediments, or other disqualifications, of which the Faculty may judge. The members of the Senior Class shall be excused from these exercises, and, instead of them, shall pronounce at stated times, during the year, orations of their own composition.

2. Should any Student be absent from examination, he may be summoned before the Faculty to show the reasons of such absence, and he shall be examined publicly by the Faculty, before he shall be permitted to join his class.

3. If a Student at an examination be found deficient, he may be publicly mentioned as a bad scholar by the Faculty or Trustees, admonished to greater diligence, or put into such class as shall suit his standing.

4. On the day of commencement, the candidates for degrees, shall perform such exercises as shall be appointed them, and no candidate shall decline the exercise assigned him, under penalty of being refused his diploma.

6. Nothing indecent, profane or immoral, shall at any time be delivered on the public stage, under such penalty as the Faculty or Trustees shall think necessary. And with a view to preserve all public exercises of the Students from impropriety of any kind, every Student, during the whole of his senior year, and previously to his commencement performances, especially, shall show to the President or presiding Professor, or to some officer designated by him, the whole of what he proposes to speak, and shall not fail to observe such corrections as shall be made, and if any Student pronounce any thing in public of a censurable nature, in opposition to the directions or corrections of the officer to whom he has shown his piece, the President or presiding Professor may stop him on the public stage, and he shall be otherwise censured as the Trustees or Faculty shall determine.

7. The Marshall and his four assistants, will, as heretofore, be recommended by the Students, and appointed by the Faculty, by and with the consent of the Trustees; but the office shall be conferred on no one who is not shewn to be a regular member of the Junior Class, and punctual in the performance of all his collegiate duties.

CHAPTER VI.

OF THE MORAL AND RELIGIOUS CONDUCT OF THE STUDENTS, AND THEIR CONDUCT TOWARDS THE FACULTY.

1. If any Student shall deny the being of a God, or the divine authority of the Holy Scriptures, or shall assert, and endeavor to propagate among the Students any principle subversive of the Christian religion, he shall be dismissed.

2. Every Student, whether he live in College or in the village, shall attend public prayers morning and evening in the Chapel, and while attending shall refrain from all noise, presenting and conducting himself with such reverence and decorum as are suited to these sacred services. On Sunday it shall be the duty of every Student to be present at the reading or delivery of a sermon in the Chapel, at the hour appointed by the Faculty for that purpose. No whispering, talking, reading, eating, laughing or indecent behaviour of any kind shall be allowed on such occasions.

3. Communicants may attend Divine Worship on the Sabbath, in the village, whenever there is service in the Churches to which they respectively belong.

4. The Students shall attend such instructions in morals or religion, as their Professors and Tutors, or the Faculty jointly shall appoint on Sunday. And if any Student absent himself, or evade such instructions, he shall be punished by his instructor, or by the Faculty, according to his offence.

5. At all times the Students shall deport and express themselves respectfully towards the Faculty, and every member of it. Any deficiency in this duty shall be considered as peculiarly in conflict with the laws and principles essential to a College, and shall be punished accordingly.

6. If a Student making application for a privilege or immunity to one member of the Faculty, be refused, he shall not go to another member with the same request without informing him of the fact. His application however, may be renewed, if he shall think proper, to the Faculty as a body.

7. A Student shall not possess nor expose to another any book or picture that is impious or obscene.

8. No insulting language or treatment shall be offered by a Student or any number of Students, to the people of the village, the country around the University, or of any other place.

15. Any Student who may be seen publicly intoxicated, or in whose room ardent spirits may be found, shall be forthwith suspended or dismissed, as the circumstances of the case may seem to require.

16. No Student shall go to a tavern, beer house, or any such place, for the purposes of entertainment or amusement, without permission from some officer of the College; nor shall he, on any occasion, keep company with persons of publicly bad character, under penalty of admonition, and if the practice be continued, of suspension or dismissal.

17. If any clubs or combinations of the Students shall at any time take place, either for resisting the authority of the College, interfering in its government, showing disrespect to the Faculty, or to any of its members, or for concealing or executing any evil design, the Faculty are empowered and directed to break up all such combinations as soon as discovered, and to inflict a severer punishment on each individual than if the offence intended had been committed in his individual capacity; whatever be the number concerned, or whatever be the consequence to the College.

18. Written petitions for the removal of grievances, shall not be signed by more than three Students.

19. All profane and indecent language shall be utterly excluded from the University. The Student who is guilty of using such language, and on being warned, still perseveres, shall be admonished, suspended or dismissed, according to his offence.

20. Every Student who shall send to any person a challenge or message, either in writing or otherwise, purporting to be a challenge to fight a duel, shall be expelled.

21. Every Student who shall be the bearer of any challenge or message, in writing or otherwise, purporting to be a challenge, or in any wise relating thereto; or who shall, either directly or indirectly, have any agency therein, or in the duel that may be the consequence thereof, shall be expelled.

22. Any Student who shall accept a challenge to fight a duel, shall be expelled.

23. When a Student shall be expelled in consequence of the provisions of these Ordinances, he shall be delivered over to the civil authority, to be prosecuted as the law directs.

24. The Faculty of the University shall have full cognizance and jurisdiction of all offences under these laws against the atrocious act of duelling, and are hereby authorized and required to carry the same into full effect.

25. No Student shall associate or keep company with any person expelled from the University, on pain of such punishment as the Faculty shall think proper to inflict, consistently with the laws of the Institution; provided that such punishment shall not extend to expulsion.

26. On Sunday the Students shall refrain from their ordinary diversions and exercises. They shall not fish, hunt or swim, nor shall they walk far abroad, but shall observe a quiet and orderly behaviour.

27. If any Student shall use any indecent gesture or language to any other Student or person, he shall be liable to be admonished.

28. If any Student shall be convicted of lying, he shall be admonished, suspended or dismissed, according to the degree of the offence.

29. If any Student, on being requested by any member of the Faculty to open the door of the chamber where he is, shall refuse or delay to comply, the door may be forced open and the Student compelled to make good the damage, and be otherwise punished as the Faculty shall judge proper.

30. If any Student shall be sent for by any member of the Faculty, and shall fail to come, he shall be held guilty of contempt of authority, and be punished accordingly.

31. The Students shall keep their rooms clean, and shall not put or procure to be introduced into the College, filth of any kind. Nor shall they throw on the outside of the College, against the walls, or around the buildings, any sort of dirt or rubbish, under such penalty as the offence may deserve.

32. No shouting, whistling, dancing, or any boisterous noise shall be permitted in the passages or rooms or from the windows of the College at any time, upon such penalty as the nature of the offence may, in the judgment of the Faculty, properly incur. The Students shall not station themselves either singly or in groups in the doors or passages, at the well, or any where among the buildings, especially in the hours of study; and at any time when it shall appear necessary to the order of the College, such assemblies may be broken up and dispersed by any member of the Faculty.

33. A Student seen in the campus after the ringing of the notice bell at night may be held to account therefor, and if found there in time of a disturbance, shall be deemed a participant.

34. If a Student shall strike another Student in anger, or in any manner be guilty of a breach of the peace, it is a high offence, and shall be punished as such.

35. A Student who shall reside within two miles of the University in the vacation, shall be subject to the laws of the Institution in regard to moral conduct, so as to be responsible for violations of them; when he shall apply for admission in the ensuing session.

CHAPTER VII.

PUNISHMENTS.

The punishments authorized for enforcing the laws shall be,

1. Private admonition by a member of the Faculty.

2. Admonition before the Faculty, by the President, or in his absence, by any one of their members whom the Faculty shall appoint.

3. Admonition before the class to which the Student belongs, by the President, or in his absence, by one of the members of the Faculty.

4. Public admonition before all the Students. This may be accompanied with a public confession of the fault, and a promise of reformation.

5. Suspension for a fixed time, not exceeding six months. This may be attended with admonition before the Trustees.

6. Dismission.

7. Expulsion; which punishment, except in cases of duelling, shall not be inflicted but with the sanction of five Trustees assembled.

8. When any Student shall be suspended, dismissed, or expelled, the President or presiding Professor shall address a letter to the parent or guardian of such Student, informing him of the event and its cause.

9. Any Student who may be suspended or dismissed by the Faculty, shall depart within 48 hours, and shall not, during his suspension, or during the remainder of the session in which he is dismissed, reside within two miles of the University, upon pain of a change of sentence by the Trustees into that of expulsion. To this, exception is admissible, when the parents of the Student live within the assigned limits.

10. When a Student shall so persist in habits of indolence and neglect of collegiate duties, or in disorderly behaviour, that there is no hope of reclaiming him to habits of industry and order, it shall be the duty of the President to address a letter to the parent or guardian of such Student, stating the circumstances, and advising him to withdraw him from the Institution; provided nevertheless, that nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to prevent the Faculty from suspending any Student when the same shall appear necessary.

CHAPTER VIII.

MISCELLANEOUS REGULATIONS.

1. If any Student shall cut, or injure the buildings or furniture of the Collège, or in any manner disfigure or deface them, especially with obscenity, profaneness or vulgarity, he shall, beside making good the damage, be subject to such other punishment as may be judged necessary.

2. When a Student occupies a room at the beginning of a session, he shall continue in it until the end of the session, unless a change be permitted or directed by the Faculty.

3. There shall be no ball playing in or among the College buildings or against the walls. All athletic exercises must be kept at a distance, so as to prevent damage to the buildings and interruption to study.

4. It is recommended to the Students to be plain in their dress, but it is required of them always to appear neat and cleanly. If any Student be negligent in this respect, it shall be the duty of the College officers to admonish him for it, and if he persevere, to report him to the Faculty.

5. If a Student be present at the beginning of a session, he may claim the room occupied by him at the end of the preceding session; but if not, it may be inhabited by the first occupant. More than two persons may not live in one room at any time, without permission specially obtained.

6. No Student, without permission from the President or presiding Professor, shall go beyond the prescribed limits in study hours, or at any other time when the bell may call him to his duty.

7. A Student shall not receive visitors into his room, nor shall he visit others in the hours of study, without leave from a member of the Faculty.

8. No student shall disturb or attempt any imposition on any of his fellow Students in any manner whatever; and every Student shall preserve order and decorum in his own room, and shall be responsible for all disorder committed in it, unless he give information, when in his power, of the person or persons from whom it proceeded.

9. The Faculty may interdict any house in the village as improper for the reception of Students as boarders, on account of the irregularities in which they are permitted or tempted to live, or the disorderly and pernicious examples set before them.

10. A Student may not occupy a room for residence out of College, till each of the rooms shall have two inmates. But Professors may receive Students to reside in their houses, and the Faculty may permit a Student to live in the village, when they shall judge his situation requires such indulgence.

11. At the ringing of the bell the first time in the morning, the Students shall rise to prepare for business. As soon as the bell shall ring a second time, they shall repair to the hall without delay, and attend prayers.

CHAPTER IX.

OF THE LIBRARIAN AND LIBRARY.

1. No person but a Trustee or Member of the Faculty shall at any time have access to the Library, without the presence of the Librarian or some officer of the College.

2. The Senior Tutor shall be the Librarian, and at the end of every session, shall present to the Faculty a written report of the state of the Library.

3. Such books as, by a determination of the Faculty, ought not to be taken out by the Students, may be consulted by them in the Library, on such days, and within such hours, as shall be appointed by the Faculty.

4. A Student may not, at any time, take down a book from the shelves of the Library. The Librarian alone is to deliver it to him, and return it to its place.

5. When a Student shall take a book out of the Library, he shall sign a receipt, in which the book shall be specified by the Librarian.

6. A volume shall not be kept out of the Library more than one week, without being returned to the Librarian, and the receipt for it renewed. If any other person shall want the volume at the end of that time, the one who has already had it shall not then take it out anew.

7. When a book shall be given out or returned, the Librarian shall examine it, to see if it be damaged or defaced; and if a Student shall deface or damage a book belonging to the Library, he shall pay according to the damage done, as estimated by the Faculty even to the replacing of the set. If he shall lose it, he shall pay to the Librarian its value, as estimated by the Faculty, or else he shall replace it as above. If he shall fail to return it in two weeks after taking it out of the library, he may be judged to have lost it, and the Faculty may proceed accordingly. If a Student shall refuse to comply with the decisions of the Faculty on these subjects, he may be admonished, suspended or dismissed, as the nature of the case may require.

8. The Librarian shall keep a catalogue of all the books of the Library. If any book shall be presented to the University, the name and residence of the donor shall be recorded.

9. The Librarian shall appoint a day and hour for delivering and receiving books, and shall attend once a week for these purposes.

10. While the Students are attending at the Library, they shall observe an orderly deportment.

11. A Student shall not lend a book which he has taken out of the Library, without permission from the Librarian.

CHAPTER X.

THE LITERARY SOCIETIES.

The two Literary Societies, having by former compact agreed to apportion between them the College Buildings, and to make good the damages and dilapidations they may sustain, the following partition shall be recognized and respected, to wit: the East Building shall be known as the Philanthropic, and the West Building as the Dialectic Hall, and the longitudinal apportionment of the South Building, as it exists at present, shall be maintained.
